Breaking Ground

On March 23rd, the Village of Oswego held a groundbreaking ceremony for the new police headquarters. Village President Gail Johnson, Village Administrator Dan Di Santo and Police Chief Jeff Burgner were joined by Village Trustees, members of the Oswego Police Department, Village Staff, officials from local area law enforcement agencies and community residents who came out to celebrate the groundbreaking of the Village's future police headquarters. Also on hand for the ceremony were representatives from the building's design engineers, Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum, Inc. (HOK), the consulting firm of McClaren, Wilson & Lawrie of Wheaton (MWL) and the construction management company Gilbane Building Company.

Pre-Construction Begins

Construction began on this approximately 69,000 square foot state of the art facility. Earthmoving equipment was delivered to the site, the construction trailer pad was put in place and work scheduled to begin the following week. Exciting times for OPD!
